Farm Leader Talks Sales Tax

(Radio address by Ray W. Gill, Master of Oregon State Grange, broadcast on National Grange Program over WMAL, May 19, 1934.)

National Master Taber has asked me to speak to you today about a nation-wide movement in taxation, the general sales tax. For many years all of our national farm organizations have opposed this form of taxation. It is an ancient tax, discredited by the leading economists of the world.

It is a tax that offers relief to men of wealth, but puts new burdens upon the masses of our citizens. It is a movement largely sponsored by big business, and the issue involved is one of sales taxes versus income taxes. Defeated in several attempts in congress, the sales tax is being rapidly pushed forward in the states. It usually comes disguised as a local state movement promoted because of tax delinquencies and consequent distress in governmental functions. The excuse is public debts, budget deficits and school relief and the big bait is property tax reductions.

Utilities and large corporations see in this tax a measure to reduce their tax burdens, while at the same time they pay very little in sales taxes. The great majority of property owners will pay more in sales taxes than they will get in property tax reductions.

The sponsors also see in the sales tax a method of heading off states income taxes or in cases where income taxes have already been adopted, to supplant them with the sales tax.

While a general sales tax is always unjust, it is especially dangerous when we are on the road back to business recovery, for it reduces the purchasing power of the people and discourages buying.

Sixty per cent of the people in the nation have incomes of $2,000 or less. This is the group that is hardest hit with the sales tax. The method used in the collecting of this tax throws a heavier percentage upon small sales. A tax upon food, clothing and other essentials is a tax upon necessity to live and not upon ability to pay, as is the case with income taxes. The smaller the income, the greater the percentage that is spent subject to the sales tax. The larger the income, the smaller the ratio that is affected by it.

A good example of where the sales tax falls is given by the General Welfare Tax League of New York, based upon figures from the Business Week. Excluding the sales tax on gasoline and utility services, they found that on incomes of $1,000 or less, 60.9 percent is affected by the sales tax. Upon incomes of $10,000 to $25,000 only 31.7 percent is affected, and upon $300,000 to $500,000 only 12.1 percent, while with incomes of $1,000,000 and over only 1 percent is affected by the sales tax.

Since the greater proportion of retail purchases average small, the general practice of collecting penny taxes on sales has resulted in a heavier tax than that stated in the law. Thus again, the men of small means who are compelled to buy in small amounts must carry an increased burden because of the sales tax.

The general sales tax came before the legislature of Oregon in the regular and in two special sessions last year. It was passed by the regular session and referred to the people last July, where it met decisive defeat by a 4 to 1 vote. It was passed again at the special session last December and the referendum was applied by the Grange and other organizations. It was voted upon yesterday, and I have just received a wire from Oregon advising that the sales tax was snowed under with adverse votes. The fight against it was led by the Oregon State Grange.

I cannot find any case where a sales tax has been adopted by the people. Always they were adopted by the legislatures. Always it comes as a temporary tax. Beware of the temporary tax! Beware of the so-called painless tax! For once adopted, the tax spenders will do their utmost to continue it and usually the rates, which start low, are advanced and the system becomes entrenched and to the great masses of the people it becomes "just another tax."

HOLIDAY

May 28.—Harrison Holiday and Bonnie Gullett of Holiday and Ronald Dingus of Harper made a business trip to Wayland last week.

Bradley Baldwin made a business trip to West Liberty Saturday.

Jim Onay visited his son, Hager Onay, of Hager, last week.

WILLIAMS

June 1.—Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McGuire spent Saturday night with Mrs. McGuire's daughter, Mrs. F. E. Kennard, at Logville.

Justine and Lillian Prater visited their grandmother, Mrs. Laura Prater, Friday. They were accompanied by Christine Prater.

Polly Nickell and Ophelia McGuire were Saturday night guests of Mae and Etta Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Murray and son Billy and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stone and son Jackie, of Lexington, spent Wednesday with their father, C. C. McGuire, here.

Thomas and Polly Nickell entertained at their home Wednesday Lulu and Mabel Brown of Lickingburg, Christine Nickell of Malone, Cassie Coffey of Ashland, Mae Brown of Matthew, Jim Coffey of Cisco, Martha Ann Mann of Womble, Andra and Byron Kennard of Logville, and Paul Brown of Matthew.

O. H. Prater and son Billy, Clyde and George Prater, Otis McGuire, and Oliver Brown were pleasant callers at the home of C. C. McGuire Friday afternoon.

Ottis McGuire, who had been attending school at Pikeville, has returned home.

Mrs. Dora Nickell and children, of Malone, visited their brothers, U. G. McGuire of Matthew and C. C. McGuire of this place, recently.

Dennie Nickell of Malone spent a few days last week with his father-in-law, Richard Brown. He returned home Saturday accompanied by Mrs. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McGuire had as guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Chester McGuire and children, of Florress, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Kennard and son, of Logville, Marie McGuire and Andra Kennard, of Logville, and Paul and Oliver Brown of Matthew. A fine time was had by all.

Newt Nickell of Ashland is visiting relatives and friends in this neighborhood for a few weeks. BOOTS

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

Tuesday afternoon, June 5, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter motored to Adelle to Mrs. Carter's home, and there got with her brothers and sister and their families. At about 6:30 all drove up to the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones, it being Mr. Jones' 65th birthday. The party was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

All had fixed a birthday supper, and a wonderful supper it was. They ate and made merry until the late hours of the night. It was the first time for several years that all of the family had been together. Each of them returned home with a smile and a happy wish that Dad would have many, many more birthdays.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. George Finch and children James Henry, Lloyd Mason, Lena Rose, Priscilla, David, and Alberta, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Jones and children Jasper Jr., Carrie, Margaret, and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Jones and children Walton Hardwick, Leatrice, Wanda, and Bernice, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones.

Mr. Jones returned home with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter to spend a few days and try his luck at fishing.

Firearms Dangerous

The eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Vance at White Oak was accidentally shot Saturday. She opened a drawer and seeing a revolver tried to push the drawer shut, when the revolver went off, sending the shot thru the child's abdomen on a downward course, coming out thru the lower part of the hip. The parents brought her to Dr. R. R. Sisson's office for first aid, then took her at once to Dr. Henry at Mt. Sterling and finally to Dr. Mass in Lexington. The child was found to be not seriously injured and the mother returned home. The father brought the daughter home Tuesday, and she is getting along well.

Home from School

William Allen Blair has returned from Berea, where he had been attending school. William Allen enjoyed his school work very much, made excellent grades, and was elected president of the school society for the next semester beginning in September. William Allen was much interested in work on the school paper, and will be the business manager for it when he returns to school.

Rev. Warner P. Davis

A revival meeting will begin at the Methodist church Sunday night, June 10. Rev. Warner P. Davis, pastor of the Wilmore Methodist church, will do the preaching. Rev. Davis is known throughout the state as a zealous preacher of the gospel. He has the distinctive honor of preaching every Sunday morning and evening to the largest congregation in the Kentucky conference.

The cooperation and prayers of all Christians are earnestly requested for the success of the meeting and for the salvation of immortal souls. Services will begin each night at 7:30. Every body is welcome.

DISCOURAGING OUTLOOK

We hear a great deal about the lack of leadership in the Democratic party in Kentucky and the crying need for a governor at Frankfort with the welfare of the State at heart. Recently Dr. McCormack, Secretary of the State Board of Health, stated in a speech before the Lions Club that Kentucky had had but one Governor and a half-Governor in forty years. The Governor according to Dr. McCormack, was J. C. W. Beckham, and the half-Governor was Edwin P. Morrow. He protested that on account of the present leaders of the Democratic Party the next governor of Kentucky would probably be a Republican.

Doubtless many thousands of Kentuckians will agree with Dr. McCormack and certainly they will not be far wrong. With Sampson following Fields and Laffoon succeeding Sampson this State has been steadily going from bad to worse as far as good government is concerned.

A few years ago men more interested in race track gambling than in the advancement and welfare of the State controlled the Democratic Party in Kentucky. As long as there was plenty of speckers with plenty of cash to keep the pari-mutuel machines humming, this crowd rode high, wide and handsome. They controlled the party, nominated and elected governors, and dominated the Legislature by carrying many of its members on the Jockey Club payroll. But with the coming of hard times they fell into evil ways and lost their prestige and power, soon passing to that bourne from which no traveler ever returns.

Unfortunately for Kentucky, however, with the surrender of Jockey Club leadership control of the Democratic Party failed to revert to the voters. Instead a horde of hungry job-seeking politicians took command. With the state committee already honeycombed with office holders, it was an easy task by promising remaining members places on the state ticket or jobs for themselves or their kin to discard the time-honored primary for a machine controlled convention and place in nomination a hand-picked ticket for governor and other state offices. Riding into office on a tidal wave of resentment against Sampsonism and Hooverism that was not even denied by denunciation of primary advocates as "riff-raff," the victorious job seeking politicians proceeded to feather their own nests by dividing the spoils of office among the members of the committee and their kin.

That is the situation that confronts the Democratic party in Kentucky today. Three fourths of the members of the state committee either hold public office themselves or have members of their families on the public payroll. It is an office holders' combine, not a Democratic committee. How can leadership come from such a body? What chance has Kentucky to secure a Democratic nominee for governor with the welfare of the state at heart when its party organization is absolutely dominated by office holders whose only interest is to keep their own places at the public crib?—Shelby News.

NEWSPAPERS GYPED

A number of newspapers are letting out a big howl because they have accounts on a couple of foreign advertisers which they cannot collect, although they hold a really good looking piece of paper supposed to be a check for one of these bills.

Back in March almost every Kentucky newspaper received an advertising order for a teachers' employment agency at Denver, Colorado. The order was accompanied by a check for the full amount of the advertising, but dated ahead to June 15. The Denver postmaster has now replied to inquiries from publishers who expected to use these checks to pay paper bills that the employment agency "has gone out of business."

The Courier has no personal interest in this matter, as we promptly returned the check sent us. But this business was done thru the United States mail, and the mails may not be used to defraud even newspaper men, and we suggest that this is a matter for the postal authorities.

The order for the other advertisement was from a gentleman in Massachusetts who wanted to sell a "Treatise on Spiritual Law," and do it in a way other than the straight and narrow one. This advertising is still running in several Kentucky newspapers, which seemingly have a direct first claim route to this advertiser's bank account.

Chevrolet Lowers Prices

Official announcement of price reduction on all models of Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks was made Saturday by Caskey Chevrolet Sales. The reductions run from $25 to $50 per car, and make this company's cars the lowest priced in their class. Caskey Chevrolet Sales will be glad to give you a free demonstration.

Sales Tax Discussed At Home

OPPOSES SALES TAX

Editor Courier: In reply to numerous inquiries from interested taxpayers as to the gross sales tax which will probably come before the next legislature, I wish to again express as clearly as I can that I will work for reduced taxes and not for higher taxes. I will oppose a general sales tax to the very last. C. C. MAY

(The above statement is reprinted from the Courier of June 8, 1933.)

WOULD RELEASE MAY

West Liberty, Ky., June 4, 1934.—At a mass meeting of citizens and taxpayers of Morgan county and including a number of the most prominent merchants and bankers met at the courthouse in the town of West Liberty, Kentucky, all sections of the county represented.

By motion, Dr. Whiteaker was elected chairman and Frank Kennard secretary of the meeting.

A motion unanimously prevailed, save one dissenting vote, a farmer, requesting the Honorable C. C. May, representative of the hundredth legislative district composed of Morgan county to cast his vote for the 3 percent General Sales Tax.

FRANK KENNARD, Secretary.

CAN A FEW SPEAK FOR MANY? The Courier is unable to understand how any "mass meeting" can presume to ask an honorable man to break a promise made to all the voters.

We are also unable to understand how any hand-picked group of persons can morally claim to be a "mass meeting" when such meeting was never publicly announced. The Courier would gladly have given advance publicity, without charge, if the sponsors of this meeting had wanted the people to know about it. But the Courier knew nothing about it. But the Courier knew nothing about it, and 99 percent of the people knew nothing about it, until after it was over. Even so, to the surprise of everybody, one farmer, who respected his representative's word, slipped into the meeting.

No mass meeting, no matter how well advertised and attended, can have any moral right to speak for the entire citizenship. That a privately selected, self-interested group should presumptuously assume such a right is the height—or depth—of something or other.

Is there no limit to the measures of desperation to which the tax gougers will resort?

So far as the passage of the sales tax will influence the public school finances, here is our opinion: The public schools will be in the same relative position in which they have been for many years. Namely: The state administration, the university of Kentucky, and the superintendency normal schools will first tap the fund for all they want, and what is left will be apportioned among the common schools. Like it or not, that is the medicine. And the medicine is "heap big."

HORD

Edward Hord died at his home in the north part of town on June 2 after an illness of several weeks, aged 52 years, 9 months, and 10 days.

Mr. Hord was born in Breathitt county and at the age of 17, when the United States was engaged in war with Spain, volunteered his services, served thru the war, and by reenlistments continued in the military service of his country until the close of the World war, retiring, after nearly 22 years of continuous service, on full pay.

Mr. Hord was married to Maude Bryant on March 11, 1921, and for several years has been a resident of West Liberty. Mrs. Hord and her daughter, Jessie Hord Gevedon, survive.

Funeral services were in charge of Rev. Harlan Murphy at the Christian church on Tuesday, June 5, at 2 p.m., with a large attendance.

Holly Coffee Post, American Legion, of which he was a much beloved member, conducted the very impressive burial service at the Salyers cemetery, where the body was interred.

FAMILY REUNION

A reunion of the James Harvey McGuire family on the old home place at Ebon was held on Sunday, with a basket dinner spread in the beautiful walnut grove adjoining the residence.

Mr. McGuire's wife died about eight years ago, and this is one of the annual gatherings held on the Sunday following Decoration day, in honor to her memory. Mr. McGuire is 83 years old and lives with his son, Claud McGuire, who occupies the family homestead.

The following members of the immediate family were present: Mrs. Denisa Lewis and son Byron, of Murphysboro, Mrs. Mattie Rose and husband, of Wellington, Mrs. Emma McClure of Delhart, Mrs. Cora Mann and family, of Dan, J. H. McGuire Jr. of Ebon, Rev. and Mrs. Harlan Murphy and grandson Cleo, and Claud McGuire and family.

At 2 o'clock a crowd of neighbors and friends, about 250, joined the family group in appropriate services in the family cemetery, under the leadership of Rev. Harlan Murphy.

NOT GUILTY

The Kentucky Retail Merchants' association is not a political organization, as some of our state educators have accused us of being.

We do not desire to take any part in politics. We have not attempted to dictate, and we have not aligned ourselves with anyone to dictate, to our legislators. But we have protested, and we will continue to protest, against a scheme of taxation that would make the merchants alone responsible for the collection of more than 21 million dollars of new taxes annually.

Of course the sales tax would have to be collected from our customers by means of increased prices. We insist that no legislature has any right to make a tax collector out of every merchant without his consent.

FARMERS' COLUMN

The Farm and Home

Many growers follow the practice of pulling off all but the best apples when they are about the size of marbles, leaving them well distributed over the tree. Investigations show that 20 to 30 good, healthy leaves are needed for each apple.

Attempting to "set" colors in dress materials by treatment with salt solution, vinegar, turpentine, sugar or lead, etc., is probably useless. Fast vat dyes should be purchased, or materials treated with them, for color retention.

It is a mistaken notion that certain foods nourish specific parts of the body; for instance, that fish or nuts feed the brain, tomatoes clear the head or lemons help digestion. Food is absorbed into the blood stream and taken to all parts of the body.

Grass is valuable as a hog pasture. It usually reduces the cost of raising hogs, makes possible more rapid gain, and is considered highly important in maintaining health and thriftiness in growing pigs and mature hogs alike. There is still time to sow rape.

Very low roosts should be placed in the brooder house when the chicks are three to four weeks old. By teaching the chicks to roost early the danger of crowding in the corners is eliminated. Pulletts should not be allowed to range with old hens or with turkeys.

John feels "out of sorts" and does up on "patent medicine." In a few days he feels better, and believes the "medicine" made him well. As a matter of fact, the cure was brought about by nature, which takes care of nine cases out of ten.

Poultry Raising Course

A short practical course in poultry raising is announced by the Kentucky college of agriculture at Lexington for June 25-29. Five days of intensive training will be given farmers, poultrymen and hatchery operators.

Men and women attending will be given actual experience in culling, selection of breeding stock, incubation practices, and attend lectures and demonstrations in disease diagnosis and control, and many other subjects of vital interest to poultry raisers.

Essentially practical, the course will deal with principles applicable to both small farm flocks and large commercial poultry establishments. The course will be free and open to all men and women. Write Dr. J. Holmes Martin for further details.

Cucumber Beetles

The striped cucumber beetle is prevalent all over Kentucky, attacking squash, beans, melons and cucumbers. It is sometimes called striped bug, melons bug or "cuke" bug. The control recommended by the college of agriculture, university of Kentucky, consists of dusting the plants with a mixture of one part of calcium arsenate and 15 parts of gypsum or land-plaster.

When purchased from lumber dealers or builders supply companies, land-plaster has half in it. This should be screened out before being mixed with the calcium arsenate.

Since the beetles often attack the plants before they come through the ground, dusting should begin without waiting, and repeated every three or four days until the plants are beyond the critical stage. The dust can be applied with a gunny sack.

The beetles not only eat holes in the leaves but spread wilt or mosaic disease.

To Check Signers

Arrangements have been made by the agricultural adjustment administration to check the wheat acreages of farmers who signed reduction contracts. Each district or county control association will appoint a local supervisor who will direct measuring the fields. Approximately 4,000 Kentucky wheat growers signed adjustment contracts. C. E. Miller, formerly agricultural agent in Boyle and Henderson counties, has been appointed the AAA wheat compliance agent for Kentucky, with headquarters at the agricultural experiment station at Lexington.

Implement Expenses

Selecting implements that best meet the needs of the farm, proper housing, a farm shop to make repairs, and operation of machines by owners rather than hired help, are some ways to reduce implement expense suggested in Bulletin No. 345, recently published by the agricultural experiment station of the university of Kentucky. It reports a study made of the use and expense of implements on 101 farms in Christian and Todd counties.

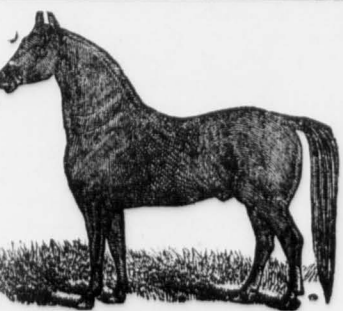

Ninety kinds of implements were found on the 101 farms. Their average life varied from six years for horse-drawn seed pans to 32 years for steam tractors. Mowers were used an average of 129 days, and wagons 1,090 days. Tractors were used an average of only 27 days a year, and 294 working days were the average life of a tractor.

The average yearly implement expense on the 101 farms was $169, and varied from $180 year for tractors to less than $1 for plows, drags and cultivators. The expense varied with the size of farms and number of days of service. It cost an average of $1.03 an acre to use a binder to cut only 14 acres a year, compared to 31 cents when an average of 76 acres were cut per binder.

The study indicated that hired labor increased the expense of implements, and it is suggested that owners operate machines, particularly more complex and expensive ones.

A farm shop reduced the cost of implements, and made it possible to repair machines at odd times and have them ready for service when needed.

Housing also reduced cost of machinery. Mowers left in the open required 60 percent more expense for repairs than did those kept indoors. Proper selection of machinery was found important. Many implements were discarded because no longer needed or because they were not adapted to the work.

Need Addition to Lime and Manure

Superphosphate Recommended for the Improvement of Pastures.

By L. R. SIMONS, Director of Extension, New York State College of Agriculture, WNU Service.

The extension service of the College of Agriculture is working on a campaign for pasture improvement, as part of an effort to get more pounds of milk to the acre. It says that the present main activity of this campaign is to induce the use of superphosphate with manure for top dressings for pastures, and for the growing of small grains and silage.

The college points out that New York soils and manure are low in phosphorus, and for this reason, superphosphate should be used to supplement lime and manure in order to get better yields of legume-hay and small grain crops.

Because superphosphate doubles the value of manure as a fertilizer, it makes the supply go further. Recent experiments have also proved that superphosphate, alone or with manure, will greatly improve permanent pastures.

The college makes these suggestions for the use of superphosphate:

Buy bulk superphosphate. Use it in the dairy barn this winter at the rate of four or five pounds for each cow. 40 to 50 pounds for every load of manure.

Apply the manure supplemented with superphosphate at the rate of not more than ten loads per acre on corn land or for top dressing new seedling.

The county agricultural agent has direct charge of the campaign, and is ready to give the latest information about the best methods for buying and handling superphosphate.

Efficient Milk Tests

Can Be Made at Home

Here is an easy test which anyone can make of his milk at home:

1. After the milk is all cooled and stirred, take an eight or ten-ounce sample; place in a clean milk bottle or fruit jar and cover tightly.

2. Set the sample in a cool place for 36 or 72 hours. You might take one test at 36 hours; the other at 72.

3. Warm the milk by placing sample in a pan of water at 95 to 100 degrees F. for about ten minutes.

4. Now remove the cap and smell; then taste the milk by taking it into the mouth and tipping your head so that it will reach the taste glands at the base of your tongue. Discharge it from the mouth; do not swallow it.

5. Good milk has little taste and leaves no disagreeable taste in the mouth.

6. Set the rest of the sample in a warm place, with the cap on, to sour.

7. Good milk sours with an even, thin curd. If it shows a watery, or "glassy" broken curd, you probably either have one or more cows giving bad milk; or your methods of milk production are not good.—Milwaukee Milk Producer.

Salt for Pigs

Many farmers never feed salt to pigs because of the danger of having them get too much at one time, but there is no possibility of their doing so if the salt is well mixed with the ground feed, says Wallace's Farmer. At the Lacombe (Alberta) dominion experiment station, it was found that the grinding of feed was made especially profitable because of the convenience in feeding salt. It is reported that the addition of salt not only served as a spice to what the appetite, but it also added to the palatability of the feeds used, the difference being reflected in the extra amount of feed consumed by the salt-fed pigs. In tests conducted the last three summers, the use of 2.5 pounds of salt in every 100 pounds of meal mixture, with pigs in dry lot, self-fed a grain ration of oats and barley, resulted, on the average, in a 30 per cent increase in the daily gains and a 22 per cent decrease in cost of gain.

Agricultural Notes

One-third of the world's supply of apples is grown in the United States.

Over-crowded apple orchards may be improved by cutting out every other diagonal row.

The chewing of boards and bones by cattle is an indication that they are requiring minerals.

Fall-freshening cows are more profitable than cows which freshen in other seasons of the year.

Four acres of ground on a farm near Free Soil, Mich., yielded 250 bushels of wheat the past year.

Notice on farm gate: "I am going to enforce trespassing and hunting on this place from now on, so watch out."

The corn crop in Illinois the past year is estimated at a state average of 26.5 bushels to the acre, or 23 per cent below normal.

Apple peels are six times as rich in vitamin C as is the flesh near the core, according to a University of Wisconsin food authority.

In 1930 there were 920,000 tractors reported on farms in the United States compared with 246,000 ten years ago; also 800,000 trucks on farms compared with 139,000 in 1920.

Berries Help Farmers

Crittenden county farmers sold their first commercial crop of strawberries this year. It is estimated that $25,000 was added to the income of the county by the strawberry crop, and $5,000 was paid in wages to pickers. Strawberries are a new industry for Crittenden county, developed by County Agent H. R. Jackson, the Farm Bureau, the Illinois Central railroad and progressive farmers and business men of the county.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION

Notice is hereby given that, at a meeting of the stockholders of The Kentucky Block Cannel Coal Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of West Virginia, held at 15 William Street, New York, N. Y., on the 1st day of June, 1934, the following resolutions were adopted:

RESOLVED, First, That The Kentucky Block Cannel Coal Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of West Virginia, does hereby discontinue business as a corporation and surrenders to said State its charter and corporate franchises. The board of directors will proceed to convert the property, choses in action and all assets of this corporation into cash, and pay off and discharge all its debts, liabilities and obligations; and, after fully discharging all such debts, liabilities and obligations, divide the remainder among the stockholders pro rata with their several holdings of stock, but no such payment shall be made to any stockholder until after the publication of the notice herein-after provided.

RESOLVED, Second, That the president of this corporation cause notice of the adoption of the foregoing resolution to be published in some newspaper of general circulation, published near the principal office or place of business of this corporation, once a week for two successive weeks; and that he certify these resolutions to the secretary of state of the State of West Virginia, and deliver to him a certificate showing the publication of such notice.

Given under my hand this 1st day of June, 1934.

LUNSFORD P. YANDELL,
President of said Corporation.
Attest: F. G. Heumann, Secretary.

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants results—not excuses.

How many times do Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, "That Tired Feeling," That "Morning After" Feeling, Neuralgia, Rheumatic, Sciatic, Muscular or Periodic Pains keep you at home or interfere with your doing a full day's work?

All these troubles are caused or made worse by too much acid in your body. To correct this condition take

ALKA-SELTZER

The New Pain Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid. Alka-Seltzer is pleasant to take, harmless, non-laxative.

Why don't you try it? Get a drink at your drug store soda fountain for a nickel. Buy a package for home use.
